STATE GUARD TO ARRIVE AUGUST 4

LIEUT. COL. PEARSON TO DIRECT WORK OF MILITIAMEN.

The general orders calling the Michigan National Guard to camp for the summer training of two weeks was received in Detroit during the week. The entire Michigan National Guard will camp on the Hanson state military reservation, near Grayling, Mich., this year. None of the units will go to camp at Camp Custer this year.

The only pay the officers and men will receive this year is the pay and allowances of their grade paid by the government. The State of Michigan formerly paid $2 a day to each enlisted man for the time he actually spent in camp, but since the World war the state legislature has not appropriated any money for this purpose. Other states are still paying the enlisted men from $1 to $2 a day for the actual time they are in camp.

Order to Active Duty. The general orders "order" to active duty the special troops, 32nd division, less the M. P. and tank companies, the 68th infantry brigade, 107th Medical Regiment, Headquarters, 32nd Division, Michigan officers only, state staff corps, will be in camp from August 4 to August 18, both dates inclusive.

One squadron of the 106th Cavalry, 19th Field Artillery and the 182nd Field Artillery will be in camp from August 8 to August 22, both dates inclusive. Enlisted men will be furnished subsistence or the authorized allowance for the same. All troops will have the prescribed individual field equipment except overalls. All mounted organizations will take all available and suitable public animals. All the travel for the troops will be by rail with the exception of the detachment of the 119th Ambulance company which will be by motor.

Brigadier General Guy H. Wilson is designated as camp commander, and he will also be in command of the 32nd Division headquarters. The camp staff will be designated by the camp commander from the staff of the 32nd Division, and from such officers of the state staff corps and departments as have been attached or assigned to headquarters of the 32nd Division. The commander and his staff will arrive in camp not later than 5 p. m., August 3, and they will be relieved on August 22.

Col. Pearson in Charge. Special details of troops to make the necessary preparations of the camp for the main body will arrive in camp several days before the various units arrive. The instruction will be directed by the camp commander and senior instructor, in accordance with schedules approved by the corps area commander.

The camp quartermaster and supply officer will be Lieutenant Colonel LeRoy Pearson, quartermaster general of Michigan. He is authorized to establish a supply depot at Camp and procure and issue rations and such other material and supplies as may be available, not exceeding prescribed allowances. He will also pay the personnel under the provisions of the new army pay law only. The camp pay rolls will be prepared at the home stations and will contain the names of all personnel belonging to the command, whether present for duty or not, and will be ready for presentation to the mustering officer immediately upon arrival of the units in camp.

GLEN OWEN HOME DESTROYED BY FIRE.

Work of Firemen Retarded by Low Water Pressure.

The home of Glen Owen and family on Ionia street, near the Danish gymnasium, was totally destroyed by fire Sunday night. Also a quantity of the furniture was burned.

The family has been in Detroit since school closed in June and just how the fire originated is a mystery to the firemen. It was discovered at about 11:30 p. m. in the woodshed which is a part of the building, where it had a fair start.

An alarm was turned in by the neighbors. Ben Yoder was at the switch board in the telephone office. He says that he had to call the pumping station five times before he got a response. In the mean time he called a large majority of the firemen. Frank Sanders was the engineer on duty at the power house.

When the water was turned on it was found that the pressure was so low that the efforts of the firemen accomplished but little. Holding the nozzle of the hose straight up it didn't throw a stream five feet high. We say five feet to be sure of not exaggerating the distance, but in fact it was well within that distance. There was no force of water sufficient to do any material good and the firemen and spectators had to stand by and witness the whole structure burn to the ground, while, if there had been sufficient force of water the main part of the building should easily have been saved. Some of the firemen say that the fire could have been confined to the woodshed where it started had they had adequate water pressure.

According to Fire Chief Tony Nelson there are several elements that enter into the low water pressure that night. In the first place, he says, the water pipes are wrong. A four inch main along Michigan avenue is reduced at a certain block to three inches, and further on enlarged again to four inches. This reduces the pressure of the water and it cannot be kept up to the normal pressure of the mains where they have been properly installed. "The pumps at the waterworks,"

OFFICERS MAKE MANY ARRESTS

DRUNKS SQUEAL ON ALLEGED LIQUOR SELLERS.

Jerry LaMotte Again Arrested. Taken To Federal Court For Trial.

The arrest of Charles Ford and Paul Sivrais Sunday night lead to wholesale arrests for more serious offenses. Jerry LaMotte of this city and Bert Damoth and Roy Wells of Frederic now face charges of violation of the prohibition law.

Charles Ford. Ford was arrested by Night Marshal Al Cripps, and pleaded guilty in justice court to the charge of being drunk, and later was arrested for having liquor in his possession and was bound over to circuit court where he pleaded guilty Tuesday and was let go on his own recognizance to appear at the next term of Circuit court for sentence.

During this time he made a sworn, written statement of where he obtained the liquor he had when he was arrested—a quart. He implicated Jerry LaMotte and the latter was arrested by Cripps, charging him with violation of the prohibition law. LaMotte was taken to Bay City by S. Keesley Wednesday night to appear in Federal court for trial. Ford is about 50 years of age and unmarried.

Paul Sivrais. Sivrais was arrested by Marshal Cripps. His case was similar to that of Ford's. He pleaded guilty to the charge of drunkness and also was arrested for having liquor in his possession. He pleaded guilty in Circuit court and was let go on his own recognizance to appear at the next term of Circuit court for sentence.

He too had liquor in his possession when arrested and told where he obtained it and claimed that he had on former occasions purchased liquor from Bert Damoth and Roy Wells of Frederic.

A posse of officers consisting of Marshal Cripps, Sheriff Jorgensen, Deputy Ben Yoder and State Police S. Keesley raided with search warrants the places of Damoth and Wells and found a large quantity of booze. The two latter were arrested and brot to Grayling.

Wells has acknowledged his guilt and was bound over to the October term of circuit court for arraignment, while he says he will plead guilty. Damoth was taken to Bay City with LaMotte Wednesday night by State Police Keesley to be tried in the Federal court.

It was a busy week for the officers, especially Marshal Cripps, who is deserving of the lion's share in success of bringing these cases to justice. He tells us not to be surprised if he lands a number of others in jail before many days. Justice Kraus handled these cases in lower court.

said Mr. Nelson, "were set to keep the water pressure from getting higher than 60 pounds, which is not enough for fire pressure." The engineer Frank Sanders, who is new on the job, was unable to find wrenches with which he could regulate the governor and speed up the engine so that greater pressure of water could be had. It would make no difference how many pounds of steam there were upon the boiler, the engine could not be speeded up to increase the water pressure," according to a statement by the fire chief. The chief engineer and mechanic were out of the village at the time.

Two lines of hose were strung from the same water main and when it was found that they could not get the required pressure, one hose line was ordered closed hoping it would give more pressure at the other nozzle but, said Chief Nelson, it didn't seem to make any difference.

The chief engine was completely discharged right at the beginning of the fire and was recharged and kept in readiness to protect nearby buildings in case they became too hot or caught fire from sparks. The firemen did everything they could and it was agony to them to see the fire lick up the whole structure while their best efforts were but of no avail in quenching the flames.

The building was insured for $1,000. Also there was $1,000 insurance on the household goods. The piano, phonograph and considerable of the other furniture was saved.

CRAWFORD-WILBUR.

The marriage of Miss Mildred Wilbur daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Wilbur, and Mr. Gardner Crawford, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Crawford, took place Saturday evening at 6 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents in Lansing.

The vows were spoken before Rev. Nicholson, former pastor of the Christian Church.

Miss Olive M. Wilbur, sister of the bride attended her sister as bridesmaid and Mr. Fae Crawford brother of the groom was best man. The bride was becomingly gowned in blue crepe and carried a shower bouquet of sweet peas and roses. Following the ceremony a dinner was served.

Their honeymoon will be spent at Houghton lake after which they will be at home to their friends at their home on Oak Street, Lansing.

Guests from out of the city, attending the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. E. Forbush, grandparents of the bride; Mr. and Mrs. Corydon Forbush and son Keith of Frederic Mich; and Mrs. Mac Taylor of Petoskey.

CHAUTAUQUA IS COMING NEXT WEEK

THREE DAYS OF JOY. HEAR 'EM ALL.

Music, Drama, Art, Speeches, Royal Entertainers.

It is time you took a vacation! Here is your chance to have a rest and some fun—3 days of vacation and entertainment—and it won't cost you a penny for railroad fare.

First Day. Landis Orchestra—A peppy, lively bunch of honest-to-goodness music makers who play everything from Grand Opera to Jazz. They will hand you the kind of music you want to hear and it will be immense.

U. G. Lacey, Lecturer—Takes the old town apart and puts it together again. He's a jim dandy story teller and packs a lot of brains under his straw lid.

Second Day. Herrod Jubilee Singers—A colored troupe of entertainers who always hit the bullseye. They sing those old negro melodies and slave day songs and are happy-go-lucky, care-free musicians and comedians. This is something new and different. Ash Davis, Cartoonist—Draws beautiful pictures with the speed of a rifle bullet. Makes funny cartoons—draws 'em up side down, sideways, and every which way and keeps you laughing.

Third Day. "Pair of Sixes"—If you like big comedy dramas here is one for you. New York called it "The funniest farce in the world." It's certainly a world beater of a play. Bring the family, and let's see who can laugh the loudest.

Josh Lee—Is a story teller, mimic, impersonator, humorist and an all around "funny man."

Will be one of the big programs that you must not miss.

Hear 'em all at the Chautauqua tent. Boost for Your Own TOWN. American Legion to Receive Proceeds. The proceeds of the Chautauqua, over and above costs are to be turned over to Grayling Post American Legion. This organization has in charge the selling of the tickets, and the members are hoping the public will be real generous in their patronage.

Officers. Emil Gilling, chairman; C. W. Olson, assistant chairman, and Alfred Hanson, secretary and treasurer.

Committees.

The following committees have charge of the affairs of the Chautauqua:

Publicity—O. P. Schumann, chairman; Lorane Sparkes, Holger Hanson, A. J. Joseph and Carl W. Peterson.

Grounds and Arrangements—Fred R. Walsh, chairman; M. A. Bates, T. P. Peterson, C. M. Morfit and John Brown.

YOUNG WIFE AND MOTHER PASSED AWAY.

A sad death occurred last Thursday evening at 6:00 o'clock, when Mrs. Grace Niederer, wife of Hans Niederer passed away from tuberculosis, from which had been ill since last fall. She was under local physicians' care, and later went to her parents' home in Saginaw to consult physicians, but her case was beyond aid. The young wife and mother of three children had been at Lake Margrethe trying to recuperate her health. She has been in a most feeble condition, unable to be out of bed for some time, and relatives have been at her bedside constantly.

Mrs. Niederer, who was formerly Miss Grace Edna Billings was born in Augres, Mich., August 14, 1900, being 23 years old at the time of her death. The young woman came to Grayling with her parents about ten years ago. She was united in marriage to Hans Niederer, son of John Niederer of this city in 1920 and to them was born one child, Betty Jane who with the bereaved husband survives.

The funeral of Mrs. Niederer was held Monday morning, the mass of requiem being sung by Rev. Fr. A. O. Bosley, who also delivered an impressive sermon. There were a large number present at the services.

Besides her husband and small daughter the deceased is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Billings of Saginaw, three sisters, Mrs. George Colten of this city, Mrs. Paul Townsend of Saginaw and Mrs. Frank Griver of Bay City, and one brother, Guy of Saginaw. Besides those mentioned above Frank Griver of Bay City and Mrs. Nettie Muhr of Detroit came to be in attendance at the funeral. The Billings family moved to Saginaw about a year ago. The untimely death of Mrs. Niederer is keenly felt by her family and friends. Although her condition had been such that her death was expected at any time, it was a sad blow to her family, all of whom have the sympathy of many friends.

DRIVER MUST STOP CAR.

Justice Van Kirk of the Supreme Court of New York said: "The safe limit to speed in approaching a crossing is that speed at which the driver of an auto as he arrives at a point, where he can see an on-coming train, when it is near enough to render crossing ahead dangerous, can stop his car if necessary before he reaches the track. It is futile to look when one cannot see. If he cannot see without stopping he must stop."

BALLOONIST FOUND DEAD IN LAKE ERIE

AERONAUT LASHED TO BASKET RECOVERED BY FISHING TUG— OTHER NOT LOCATED.

TRAGEDY END OF BALLOON RACE

Two Army Lieutenants Believed to Have Cut Basket Free to Save Selves.

Port Stanley, Ont.—Clad only in underwear, the body of Lieutenant Louis J. Roth was found by a fishing tug in Lake Erie 14 miles south of here, lashed to the basket of the naval balloon A-6689, wrecked Thursday night in a terrific storm.

No trace of the body of Lieutenant T. B. Null, Lieutenant Roth's aid, has yet been found, but the discovery of Lieutenant Roth's body is conceded by searchers a certain indication that Null also perished.

With a naval life preserver about his waist, and stripped of his uniform suit, Lieutenant Roth's body was found tied by balloon rope to the almost submerged basket which, it is believed, was cut loose from the bag. The discovery was made by Captain George Wilson of the fishing tug Onajag. The body was removed here to await instructions from the bureau of aeronautics, U. S. Navy, at Washington, D. C.

Identification was rendered positive by a ring carrying a red jewel setting which was upon the left hand of the dead man, and by the initials L. J. R. stenciled upon the underwear. The Onajag was not among the fleet of boats searching for the body, but was en route to fishing grounds when the body and balloon basket were found. The search previously had been centered upon the district about 25 miles southwest of here, in the vicinity of which the wrecked balloon was found Saturday morning.

Indications are that the men cut loose from the bag when it struck the water, and relied upon the buoyancy of the basket and their life preservers to keep them afloat until rescuers arrived.

The huge storm waves for which the shallow Lake Erie is notorious, are believed to have turned the basket over and over and to have slowly drowned the men lashed to its side.

TURK VICTORY SEEN IN PARLEY.

Western Powers Agree To Cut Debt Out of Treaty.

Lausanne—An accord has been reached between the Turks and Western Powers, and peace probably will be signed this week.

Thus the Near East Peace Conference, in continuous session more than three months, has had a successful outcome. For a considerable period the settlement hung in the balance on the question of the Ottoman debt, concessions, and the evacuation of Constantinople and other Turkish territory for foreign troops.

Both sides were forced, to give way in a measure at the end. As to the Ottoman debt, the Powers agreed with the Turks that all reference to the debt should be removed from the treaty.

This is a great victory for the Turks, because it means they do not go on official record as confirming the obligations of the debt.

The Powers, however, will make a declaration before the conference that the debt contracts can not be modified except by mutual agreement between Turkey and the bondholders.

VOLSTEAD CURB RULED INVALID

Physicians Not Limited in Prescribing Liquor for Patients.

Helena, Mont.—Congress, having conferred upon physicians the discretionary right of prescribing liquor, cannot regulate the amount a physician may prescribe, the United States federal district judge for Montana held in substance in a decision.

With reference to the maximum amount of liquor which the prohibition enforcement law states may be prescribed to any one patient, Judge Bourquin declared portions of the law unconstitutional, for the reason that patients are not alike and diseases dissimilar, the dosage cannot be fixed arbitrarily.

The court decision holds as invalid and unconstitutional those portions of the Volstead act which limit the number of whiskey prescriptions a physician may write and the quantity of whiskey which he may prescribe for any one person in a given period.

Finda Old Silver Dollar. Millersburg, O.—A United States silver dollar, bearing the date of 1795, of which series only a small number were minted, has been found in the possession of Napoleon Keltner, aged eccentric here. A gold coin was appointed for the old man, who lives alone, and the coin was found in a jar which contained several thousand dollars, which he had secreted. Keltner's father was one of the early settlers of Holmes county and earned the dollar cutting grain.

ROOMS WANTED DURING GUARD ENCAMPMENT.

A couple of weeks ago an appeal was made thru this paper to the people of Grayling, asking those who would be in position to take roomers during the time of the National Guard encampment, to report to the Board of Trade.

Several have responded but there is still need of additional accommodations. Anyone having one or more furnished rooms that can be spared during this time, please notify the Board of Trade or the Avalanche. Further information will be gladly furnished.

These accommodations will be needed and we trust our people will be free to respond to the situation.

Anthony's Nose-Bear Mountain

$5,000,000 Suspension Bridge Across the Hudson Just Above Peekskill

TIME was when cross-river traffic over the Hudson south of Albany could be satisfactorily handled by the ferries. But those days are past, with the increase of population and the coming of good roads, the pleasure automobile and the motor truck. The ferry service has been greatly increased in the last decade, but it is now swamped, especially on Saturdays, Sundays and holidays. It is of record that on Memorial day, 1921, some cars had to wait hours before they could cross on the Dyckman street ferry. You see, more than eight million people live and do business in New York and its environs.

Another feature of the situation is the development of the Interstate Palisades park, where New York's swiftest millions go to cool off. In 1921 over 300,000 cars stopped at Bear Mountain Inn in this park, and for the last five years the annual increase in motor travel has been 40 per cent.

So, while the ferry lines are constantly increasing their equipment and service, New York has decided to put something else across.

One method of getting across is a tunnel, so a vehicular tunnel of two parallel 29-foot tubes is being constructed from Canal street, Manhattan, to Provoost street, Jersey City, a distance of 9,250 feet, 6,480 feet of it under water. Its capacity will be 25,000 vehicles daily, about twice that of the fourteen Hudson river ferries. The work has now reached the under-water sections on both sides.

The total cost will be about $30,000,000, and both tubes, if nothing happens, will be ready in two years. Tolls and charges are expected to pay for it in twenty years.

In addition, two additional vehicular tunnel projects are under way, to be built by private capital. One is planned between Hudson county, New Jersey, and Manhattan island and the other between Bergen county, New Jersey, and Manhattan island.

In the meantime a suspension bridge is going across from Anthony's Nose on the east side of the Hudson to Bear Mountain in the Interstate Palisades park. It will have a main span of 120 feet. This bridge will therefore be one of the largest suspension bridges in the world, if not the longest. It will hang 153 feet above the river. The towers are 350 feet high. The bridge will be ready for traffic, it is hoped, by Labor Day of 1924. Provision is made for public ownership after a reasonable period of tolls.

How the bridge will look when completed is shown by the designer's drawing, reproduced herewith. The view is down stream from the Henry Hudson highway on the west bank, which is in great part completed and will extend from Dyckman street ferry, along the west bank to Newburg. At the right of the drawing is Iona island.

and beyond that Jones point. The railroad tracks in the foreground are those of the West Shore railroad, and the New York Central main line is shown across the river. The full-sized model of Hudson's Half Moon is in evidence inside the west shore trestle.

The hill across the river is Anthony's Nose, and the highway is part of a new three-mile road from the Albany Post road, North Peekskill, and just below Annsville. Near the river and a little east of the New York Central railroad tracks the road around Anthony's Nose will begin. It will cross at one or two points the tunnels over the railroad tracks following the outer edge of the mountain and affording admirable views of the lofty Dunderberg and the high hills back of Bear Mountain park on the west bank. The actual width of this new mountain road will be 30 feet and the concrete surface will be 18 feet wide throughout. Its cost, owing to the large amount of rock excavation work required, will be $100,000 a mile, and before completion the cost may exceed that figure. This is not state work, but is being paid for by the bridge company, which received its charter a year ago from the New York legislature. Plans have been approved by the War department and the state engineer.

Work on the new road around the mountain has been begun at its easterly end, where it joins the State road leading off from the Albany Post road. When the bridge crosses the river at Anthony's Nose it will be 135 feet above the river. The western end of the bridge will be at Fort Clinton, just south of Popolopen creek, near the foot of Bear Mountain. The road from the bridge will be 38 feet wide, with a sidewalk for pedestrians 4 feet wide on either side. The vehicular capacity of the bridge is estimated at 5,000 cars an hour.

The total cost of the bridge and the new road will be from $5,000,000 to $30,000,000. It will be constructed as a toll bridge with reasonable charges for vehicles and pedestrians.

Motor travel along the Hudson River by pleasure tourists has increased materially on the west bank of the river since the opening last season of the Storm King road, between Cornwall and West Point. It is not only the most expensive road ever built by the highway commission of the state, but probably the most scenic highway in the eastern part of the country. It is just south of the road, at the northern extremity of Bear Mountain, that the new bridge will be built. On the east bank the roadway leading from the bridge swings to the right and follows a new road three miles in length, which extends around the mountain to Roa Hook, where it connects with a road which leads to the Albany Post road.

Concerning the reasons for the location of the new bridge, the Scientific American has this to say: "It is not so much the failure of the ferry owners to try to meet the situation as it is the development of good roads and automobile transportation during the last decade, that has given rise to the present necessity for a bridge crossing the Hudson river within easy reach of the metropolitan district.

"After an exhaustive examination of all possible bridge sites between New York and Poughkeepsie, a site a few miles north of Peekskill was selected as having the following advantages:

"First, it was found that a highway suspension bridge for motor traffic, including approaches on both sides of the river, could be built for $5,000,000, in less than two years' time.

"Secondly, the bridge will be about 40 miles from the heart of New York City, and will make a direct connection between the main highway leading through Middletown to Binghamton, Syracuse, Elmira, Rochester and Buffalo, and the Albany Post road.

"It will give residents of Tuxedo, West Point, Newburgh and Kingston sections direct highway connection with New York City, thereby avoiding ferry delays at New York; and now that the Kingston bridge and Storm King road are completed, it will give an all-land route from Albany to New York via Kingston, Newburgh and West Point. Another great advantage, especially in the vacation season, is that it will give an all-land route to West Point, Palisades Interstate park and the Catskill district, for residents of New York City and Westchester county.

"Over and above the benefits to automobile travel will be the advantage of this crossing in quickening and cheapening the motor truck service. There is at present a very large freight-trucking business carried on from the farms, truck gardens and dairies of Orange county into New York City. At present this traffic goes through New York state to the west of the Hudson, through Suffern and down to New York City, through the northern part of New Jersey, finally crossing the Hudson by ferry from Jersey City to Manhattan. The necessity of taking all of this freight over the congested roads in northern New Jersey and the ferries is felt to be a big handicap, and it is expected, that when it will reach the city via Central Valley, Highland Falls, and the new bridge, and down the roads on the east side of the river. There has also recently been developed an extensive freight business by motor truck from the New England states to distant cities lying to the south and west. At present these trucks use the Lincoln highway through New Jersey, and have to pass through the congested metropolitan district and use the same ferries across the river.

"We give the above rather extended statement of the traffic conditions as an answer to the question that has been asked, as to why such an important bridge, one of the longest suspension bridges in the world, should be erected at a point so comparatively remote from the big city centers. Considered strategically, as a glance at any road map will show, the site has been wisely chosen."

charged with overcaution. A famous physician wrote, "The more gross the fraud the more glibly will it go down." It will always find faith wherever impostors will find impudence." But it is worth realizing that the fact of malingering means the probable existence of mental disturbance for which the malingering needs treatment.

Water Supply for Arid Country. A supply of artesian water for an area of 1,000,000 acres of arid country, southeast of Lethbridge, Alberta, was located by an officer of the Dominion Geological survey recently, and the position of the water-bearing strata and its relation to Milk river has been worked out. So that the possibility of finding water at a given point and the depth at which it will be encountered are now known within close limits.

Florists' complaints that carnations curled up their petals and "went to sleep" when placed in some greenhouses, led to the discovery of a new anesthetic, says the Popular Mechanics Magazine. Investigating the drowsiness of the flowers, it was discovered that it was caused by leaky fixtures permitting illuminating gas, which contains 4 per cent ethylene, to escape. PERE LACOMBE

Pere Lacombe, the great missionary to the Indians of the West, once for a brief hour was president of the Canadian Pacific. He joined Van Horne, George Stephen, Donald Smith, R. B. Angus, Lord Elphinstone and Count Hohenlohe at luncheon on the first through C. P. R. train to reach Calgary. After lunch Van Horne convened a meeting of directors, Stephen resigned the presidency and Pere Lacombe was unanimously elected in his place, in recognition of his services in pacifying the Blackfeet. The missionary held away for one hour and left the company on the train with pleasant memories of his genial personality.

Love's Tragedy. The little boy next door and I were very much in love. Late one afternoon we decided to get married. All the dolls were dressed in their latest clothes and the big teddy bear was propped up ready to perform the ceremony when I happened to ask my love what our name would be. He replied, "Mr. and Mrs. Bob Rockwell." I told him I liked Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Moore much better. He ventured another suggestion, and then the argument grew hot and advanced through the hair-pulling stage into violence. Finally we were both soundly spanked and put to bed without any supper. Many tears were shed that night over my first love affair and its tragic outcome.—Chicago Journal.

KEELER, AT 80, GOES TO WORK

After fourteen years of enforced idleness because of ill health, J. H. Keeler, widely-known Maryland citizen, has gained forty pounds at the age of eighty years and gone back to work every day. Mr. Keeler, who resides at 3708 Thirty-Second St., Mt. Ranier, Md., gives entire credit for his extraordinary rehabilitation to Tanlac.

"My stomach was in such terrible condition I could hardly digest a thing," says Mr. Keeler. "It would swell to nearly twice its normal size and I would have frightful pains through my stomach and back. I felt so weak, dizzy and miserable work was out of the question. In fact, my friends gave me up on three or four occasions."

"Five months ago I began taking Tanlac and improved from the very first bottle. I now eat anything on the table, have gained forty pounds, and am back at work every day. Actually, I feel like a boy again. It would be ungrateful of me not to praise Tanlac."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 87 million bottles sold.

WHY TAKE LAXATIVES?

Discovery by Science Has Replaced Them.

Pills and salts give temporary relief from constipation only at the expense of permanent injury, says an eminent medical authority.

Science has found a newer, better way—a means as simple as Nature itself.

In perfect health a natural lubricant keeps the food waste soft and moving. But when constipation exists this natural lubricant is not sufficient. Doctors prescribe Nujol because it acts like this natural lubricant and thus secures regular bowel movements by Nature's own method—lubrication.

As Nujol is not a medicine or laxative, it cannot gripe and, like pure water, it is harmless and pleasant. Nujol is used in leading hospitals. Get a bottle from your druggist today.—Advertisement.

MRS. LINDQUIST TELLS WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

What Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Did for Her

Kansas City, Mo.—"I was left in a very serious condition after childbirth and no one thought I could ever be any better. Then came the 'Change of Life' and I was not prepared for what I had to go through. I had to go to bed at times to get perfectly quiet as I could not even stoop down to pick anything from the floor. I did not suffer any pain, but I was decidedly nervous and could not sleep. For nearly two years I was this way, and the doctor was frank enough to tell me that he could do no more for me. Shortly after this I happened to see in a newspaper an advertisement of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. In a few days the medicine was in the house and I had begun to use it and I took it regularly until I was well. I recommend the Vegetable Compound to others when I have the opportunity."—Mrs. MAY LINDQUIST, 2814 Independence Ave., Kansas City, Mo.

CHAPTER XIX
The Hideout.

By J. ALLAN DUNN
Author of "A Man to His Mate," etc.
Copyright, 1922, by J. Allan Dunn

The row that had culminated at the Waterline ranch, ending in the trouble between Plimsoll and Wyatt, had brewed steadily. There had collected, besides Plimsoll's riders, Burch Parsons, Hahn and others of Plimsoll's following who had been forced from their livelihood as gamblers. They still hung together, waiting for Plimsoll to make a clean-up of his horses and move to places where they were less discredited.

Plimsoll had lost caste as a leader. His moods were morose or bragging. His ascendancy was gone. The crowd clung to him like so many leeches, waiting for a split of the proceeds of the sale of horses that no one appeared eager to buy in quantity. Ready cash was short. There were frequent quarrels; through it all there floated the leaven of Wyatt's jealousy, fermenting steadily.

When the split came, after an all-night session with cards and liquor, following the refusal of a dealer to buy the herd, it was not merely a matter between Wyatt and Plimsoll. Sides were taken and the weaker driven from the ranch. Preparations were made for departure.

"It's a rotten mess," Butch Parsons told Plimsoll. "Wyatt or one of the others'll tell all they know. We'll go South. That's my plan. You can find a buyer in Tucson. Put the horses in the Hideout. There's grub there and a safe place to lay low if anything goes wrong. They'll have a fine time proving up the horses as stolen. We've got to take a chance. There's a good chance of a sale in Tucson."

Within an hour the herd, already corralled for the chance of a quick sale, was being driven to the glen known as the Hideout, a little mountain park with water and good feed where Plimsoll placed the horses that his men drove off from far-away ranches, or Plimsoll bought from other horse dealers of his own sort, keeping them there until their brands were doctored and possible pursuit died down. There were two entrances to the Hideout, one through a narrow gut almost blocked by a fallen boulder, with only a passage wide enough to let through horse and rider single file, a way that could be easily barricaded or masked so that none would suspect any opening in the cliff. The second led by a winding way through a desolate region, over rock that left no sign and wound by twists and turns that none but the initiated could follow. The place, accidentally discovered, was perfect for its purpose. There was feed enough for the entire herd for a month. There was a cabin in a side gully of the park, near the blocked entrance, the whole place was honeycombed with caves, in the towering sidewalls and underground.

Five of the nine left of the Waterline outfit drove the herd. Hahn and Parsons could both ride, but they were not experts at handling horses. They chose to go with Plimsoll and the outfit cooked, while the rest took the long way round to the other way in. The four lingered to give the rest a start.

"I hate leaving the country without evening up some way with the Bourke outfit," said Plimsoll. "D—n him and the rest of them, they broke the luck for us. As for the girl, if . . ."

"Oh, quit throwing the bull con about that, Jim," said Parsons bluntly. "Sandy Bourke's a d—n good man for you to leave alone an' you know it. Talk ain't goin' to hurt him."

"I'm coming back some time," said Plimsoll with a string of oaths. "Then you'll see something besides talk."

Parsons jeered at him. Plimsoll was no longer the leader and he knew it. But he hung on to the semblance of authority that an open quarrel with Butch might shatter. Butch was a bully, but Plimsoll respected his shooting. And Hahn sided with him. The cook did not count.

Plimsoll carried with him a fine pair of binoculars and, as they rode leisurely on and reached a vantage point, he swept the tumbled horizon for signs of any strange riders. It was the caution of habit as much as actual fear of a raid.

At times Plimsoll rode aside from the trail to a ridge crest for wider vision. At last, coming up the pass of Willow creek, he sighted Molly and Donald with Grit trotting beside them. It was the dog that confirmed his first surmise. He had heard that Molly had returned, but he had not dared a visit to the Three Star. Who the rider with her was he did not care. That it was a tenderfoot was plain by his clothes and by his seat. As he adjusted the powerful glasses to a better focus Plimsoll's face twisted to an ugly smile.

"I'll show you if I do nothing but talk," he said to Butch after he told them of his discovery. "We'll wait for them along the trail. We'll send the chap with her back afoot."

"And what'll you do with her?" asked Hahn. "We've had enough of skirts, Plimsoll. This is no time to be nuked up with them."

"Isn't it?" The drink had given Plimsoll some of his old swagger, and the prospect of hatching the revenge over which he had brooded so long took possession of him. "Then you're a bigger fool than I thought you, Hahn. That particular skirt, aside from my personal interest in her, represents about a quarter of a million dollars—maybe more. She's got a quarter interest and a little better in the Molly mine. The Three Star owns another quarter. How much will they give up to have her back? Bourke's her guardian, remember. I think the chap with her may be young Keith. We won't monkey with him. He'll do to tell what happened. But we'll take the girl along and we'll send back word of how much we want to let her go. After I'm through with her, she may not go back the same as she came, but they won't know that and they'll pay enough to set us up and to h—l with the herd."

"You'll have the whole county searching the range," objected Parsons. "There's a lot more something about the Hideout and they'll use Wyatt to show 'em the way. Bourke'll guess where she is."

"Let him. Wyatt don't know about the caves, does he? We can take her some other place tomorrow. We won't say anything now to the kid about a ransom. We'll mail a letter after we fix details. But we'll take the girl into the Hideout now. That tenderfoot'll be lucky if he drifts back to the Three Star by nightfall good. We'll be out of the place long before that. And we'll put her where they can't find her till they come through. I'm running this."

The cook had ridden on ahead. Now he was waiting for them, looking back. Parsons shrugged his shoulders. "How do we split?" asked Hahn.

"Three ways," said Plimsoll. "We'll take her to the cabin. The rest'll be at the other end. We'll keep Cookie with us for the present. No need for the boys to know about it. We can manage that all right. Three ways, and I handle the girl."

"Grown to Be Quite a Beauty, Quite a Woman, Molly, My Dear," He Said.

Butch Parsons grinned at him. "I thought you'd lost all your nerve, Jim, but I guess I was wrong. All right, it goes as it lays. Now, then, how'll we bring it off?"

Plimsoll talked glibly, convincingly. Hahn made some objections, but Plimsoll overruled them plausibly enough.

"I don't see the sense of letting the kid go," questioned Hahn. "He's good for a bit split as well as the girl."

"You're a fool when it comes to looking ahead, Hahn. You always were," answered Plimsoll. "Keith—the old man—is too big a fish to monkey with. Got too many pulls and connections. He'd have the whole country out and the trick played up big in every dinky newspaper. We've got one fish or will have no sense straining the net. We don't want the kid. Let him string along back best way he can. We'll get all the start we need. What else would you do with him?"

"Stow him away somewhere and send a tip where they can find him in a day or two."

Plimsoll shot a look of contempt at Butch, making the proposal.

"You and Hahn make a good team," he said. "No. One's enough. He may get lost—we'll take his horse—and that won't be our fault. He may make Three Star late this afternoon. I wish I could be with him when he tells what he knows. Time they locate the Hideout, we'll be miles away through the south end and they'll have one h—l of a time trailing us over the rocks. The horses can stay in the park. If we put this deal over right we don't need to bother about horse-trading. We can get clean out of the country with a big stake, go down to South America and start up a place. There are live times and good plays down there, boys. All right, Cookie, we're coming. I'm going to take another look. It's ten to one they're making for Beaver Dam lake on a picnic."

He laughed and the two laughed with him as he went for his survey and returned, announcing that the girl and her escort were entering the ravine at the other end.

"They didn't recognize us," he said.

SENATOR GIVEN ODD NICKNAME

Oliver Morton Was Long Known Among Colleagues as the "Devil on Two Sticks."

"The Devil on Two Sticks" was a nickname given to Oliver P. Morton, American senator. For many years he was affected by a dangerous and probably incurable disease. He visited Paris for the best medical advice, and submitted to the moxa treatment. It relieved him considerably, but did not restore the paralyzed legs. He was compelled to use a walking-stick in each hand. In the ordinary course of debate in the senate for the last few years he generally read and spoke in a sitting posture, the courtesy of his brother senators admitting that position. When dealing with questions of national importance he spoke standing, supporting himself against his desk and on one of his canes, but sometimes against a standing support, consisting of an iron standard surmounted by a small wooden reading desk.

"We've got to take Cookie into this. You and Butch ride on through the trees a ways, Hahn, till you get back of them. Then we'll get 'em between us. I'll wise Cookie up to what we are doing."

It was more than doubtful whether the three ever intended for a second to allow Cookie to share in the ransom money, but Plimsoll easily persuaded him that he would be a partner, adding that it would be foolish to let all the riders into the pot.

"She's Molly Casey of the Casey mine," he told him. "Sandy Bourke's her guardian. We'll make him come through with twenty or thirty thousand, safe? But there ain't enough to go all round and make a showing."

Cookie was a willing rascal and a natural adept at the double-cross. He raised no objections and the trap was set and sprung.

"You go ahead, Cookie, and open up the gate," said Plimsoll. Hahn and Butch were speeding. Donald Keith on his way with close-fung bullets. "I'm going to have a little private talk with this lady. Go to the cabin and get some grub ready. There's plenty there. Spread yourself. We'll be along in a little while. That was a nice job of roping you did. I won't forget it."

"Allus c'd las' fair to middlin'," grinned the man through yellow, stumpy teeth. "That's why I tote a rope. An' I sure had a purty target."

Plimsoll scowled at him and he rode off. Molly, the larriat twisted about her upper body from shoulders to waist, constricting her arms, fastened where she could not reach it, by a hitch, sat on Blaze, looking with steady contempt at Plimsoll, who held her bridle rein. He regarded her with sleek complacency and then his eyes slowly traveled over her rounded figure, accentuated by her riding togethery.

"Grown to be quite a beauty, quite a woman, Molly, my dear," he said. "Never should have suspected you'd turn out such a wonder. Clothes make the woman, but it takes a proper figure to set them off. And you've got all of that."

"What are you going to do with me," she asked.

"I'm not going to tell you—yet. It depends upon circumstances, my dear. We'll have a little chat after lunch. I'll take that rope off if I wasn't afraid I might lose you. You are quite precious."

She looked through him as if he had been a sheet of glass. From her first sight of him, back in childhood, she had known instinctively the man was evil. But she was not afraid. The blood that ran in her veins was pure and bore in its crimson flood the sturdy heritage of pioneers who had outfaced dangers of death and torture. She was all Westerner. The blood was fighting blood. She felt it urged in her pulses while her brain bade her hide her time. Rage mounted as she faced the possible issues of this capture, the flaunting dismissal of young Keith. She heard the laughter that followed the rifle shots and surmised that they were having their idea of a joke with the lad.

If he got back—then Sandy would come after her. She was very sure of Sandy and that he would find her. Until he did she must use her wits.

And Grit, gallant Grit, wounded and lying in the chaparral!

Though she still gazed through Plimsoll rather than at him, the scorn showed in her eyes and bit through his assumption of ease as acid bites through skin, eating its way on. He burned to wipe out his own trickeries, his cowardice, his failures, to wreak a vile satisfaction on this girl who sat so disdainfully, with her chin lifted, her lips firm, oblivious of him. She baffled him. A mind like Plimsoll's never had the clarity of prevision to see the strength of character that had been in the prospect's child, even as he had never suspected her unfolding to beauty. It roused the vandal in him—he longed to break her, mar her.

The return of Butch and Hahn brought him back to the fact that he was not playing this deal alone. While they might allow him some personal license, to them the girl represented so much money.

He cut short Butch's boast of the way they had scared young Keith. Both Hahn and Parsons felt a coil of embarrassment at the silence, almost the serenity of their captive. They had expected her to act far differently, to rage, threaten, cry out. She almost breathed them.

"See if you can round up that d—n dog, Butch," said Plimsoll. "I plugged him but we want to be sure he don't get away. He might help Keith's kid, for one thing. And he clamped my arm."

Parsons rode into the chaparral until he was barred by its thickness.

outfit and had never attempted to use. The cook's too well thrown rope would have probably thwarted any move of hers if she had had a weapon. Her fingers crept up toward her throat touching a slender chain upon which, ever since she had returned to the Three Star, hung a gold disk, the coin with which Sandy had gambled the luck-piece. To Molly, even now it was a talisman that held promise. If they left her behind them, some how Sandy would unearth her. But that hope died.

"She'll stay in sight and touch," said Plimsoll. "Then we'll know she's safe. We'll make Windy gulch to night and stay there. It's as good a place as I know. One of us can ride over the mountain to Redding and wall the letter."

Butch nodded. "Come on, Hahn," he said. "Let's leave 'em together."

trying to stir out the seal without success.

"Dead, I reckon," he reported. "Crawled in somewhere. You hit him hard, Plim. Plenty blood on the leaves."

Molly bit her lips and pined a little, but turned away her head so that they could not see. She winked back the tears that came to her thought of Grit helpless, panting, bleeding.

They rode on up the rocky ravine. Presently they turned aside from the stony trail. To one side appeared a narrow opening, unseen from below by the curve of the great rock. Just wide enough to admit horse and rider. A few feet in, they halted, and Plimsoll turned in his saddle while the other three men dismounted and carefully adjusted several rock fragments in the opening, piling them with a swift care that showed familiarity with their task, so placing them that they appeared as if a part of the wall.

Below them, Molly saw the stony park that lay so snugly at the foot of the barrier walls. It was an irregular oval that appeared to curve at the far end. The trail down was plainly marked. It forked after they reached the general level and the branch they took led into a side gulch where a log cabin stood, smoke coming from its chimney. Plimsoll took the rein of Blaze again and they broke into a canter. At the cabin Plimsoll took Molly from the saddle and carried her into the rude interior. There he set her on a chair. Cookie was busy at a stove frying ham and eggs, with coffee simmering.

"You'd better sit up and eat nicely, my dear," said Plimsoll as he unbuckled her. "You'll have to sooner or later, you know. No sense in being stubborn."

She said nothing but he saw a gleam in her eyes as she glanced toward the table where Hahn was setting out plates and cutlery.

"You'll eat with a fork, Molly," said Plimsoll. "Those steel knives are too handy for you. There's a nasty look in those blue eyes of yours that will have to be tamed—have to be tamed," he repeated as he took a demijohn from a corner and poured out a liquor that sent the reek of its raw strength sickeningly through the cabin. "Here's to your health, Molly—Molly Mine!"

The others laughed and drank their share before they ate the food that Cookie placed before them, talking loudly, growing flushed with the crude whiskey, while Molly sat facing the door, striving to catch something that might help, might give some clue. But the talk was all of the brawl at the Waterline with contemptuous mention of Wyatt and the rest. They seemed by common consent to ignore her once she had refused the food.

This attitude weakened her resolve, though she strove against it. She had nerved herself to meet action. Now she seemed to count for little more than a bundle of more or less value, that, having been secured could wait its time for utility. Yet before she had telescoped her vision to extend through and beyond Plimsoll, she had seen devil looking from his eyes, smug devil, but none the less menacing, risen from the man's own private hell pit.

Plimsoll looked at his watch. "The horses should be showing up pretty soon," he said and rose, a little unsteadily. The effects of the liquor were patent on all of them. "Butch, you and Hahn go down with Cookie and keep 'em down at the south end. Get 'em to turn the horses loose. And get them out of the place as soon as you can after they've eaten. Better take what stuff you want, Cookie."

"Keep your eyes peeled on Cookie," Plimsoll said in a lower voice as the ranch chef went out of the door with his arms piled with provisions. "He might take a notion to talk too much."

"Where are you going to stow her?" asked Hahn. "Leave her here in Split Rock cave?"

The cautious reference to her as if she was something inanimate chilled Molly. If only she had a gun! She had laughed at Donald's tenderfoot insistence upon carrying the one he had brought West as a part of his

CIRCUIT COURT LASTS ONE DAY

SEVERAL CASES CONTINUED TO NEXT TERM.

It didn't take Judge Smith long to grind out the cases that appeared on the court calendar this term. He arrived Tuesday just in time to open court and the several cases were put thru the process of arraignment. Following are the results:

Criminal Cases.
Frank Goblet—Violation of the prohibition law. Continued to next term.

The following applicants were admitted to citizenship: Erik Elf Rasmussen, William Gildner, and Alex LaGrow. The petition of Niklas Vasanen was continued to the January term because of the absence of one of his witnesses. The petition of Henry Uhlendorf was dismissed.

COUNCIL TALKS NEW WATERWORKS.

Committee Appointed to Get Data. If Favorable Will Be Put Up to People at Special Election.

At a regular meeting of the Village council held at the Court house Monday night of this week the matter of a new or improved waterworks system was discussed. For some time there has been a feeling among certain citizens that this public utility should be improved.

The system now in use was instituted for the private use of stockholders of the Salling Hanson company. The use of the service was extended the citizens from time to time until now it has become a general public utility.

Considerable change would have to be made, according to some of the councilmen. Some of the old wooden mains would have to be taken up and replaced with iron pipe, and also the service would have to be extended to accommodate the needs of the people. The matter of deep well water to replace the water from the river is also one of the objects of the committee.

On motion Mayor Canfield appointed the following special committee to investigate the cost, submit plans and other data for the information of the council, and if satisfactory the matter of bonding the village for funds will be placed before the people at a special election. The committee is as follows: Frank Sales, J. H. Wingard and Daniel Hoesli.

BARNUM TALKS TO HOME TOWN FOLKS.

Here is a vivid picture of life in a Connecticut village a little over a century ago. It is part of a speech delivered by P. T. Barnum, the great showman, in his seventy-first year, when he returned to Bethel, Conn., his native village, to receive honors.

"I can see as if but yesterday," said Barnum, "our hard working mothers hatching their flax, carding their tow and wool, spinning, reeling, and weaving it into fabrics for bedding and clothing for all the family of both sexes. The same good mothers did the knitting, darning, mending, washing, ironing, cooking, soap and candle making, picked the geese, milked the cows, made butter and cheese, and did many other things for the support of the family."

We babies of 1810, when at home, were dressed in tow frocks, and the garments of our elders were not much superior, except on Sunday, when they wore their 'go-to-meeting' clothes' of homespun and linsey-woolsey.

"Rain water was caught and used for washing, while that for drinking and cooking was drawn from wells with their 'old oaken bucket' and long poles and well sweeps."

"Fire was kept over night by banking up the brands in ashes in the fire place, and if it went out one neighbor would visit another about daylight the next morning with a pair of tongs to borrow a coal of fire to kindle with."

"Our candles were tallow, home-made, with dark tow wicks. In summer nearly all retired to rest at early dark without lighting a candle except on extraordinary occasions."

"Home-made soap was used for washing hands, faces, and everything else."

"The children in families of ordinary circumstances ate their meals on trenchers, wooden plates. As I grew older our family and others got an extravagant streak, discarded the trenchers and rose to the dignity of pewter plates and linden spoons. Tin peddlers who traveled through the country with their wagons supplied these and other luxuries."

MICHIGAN—HOME OF AUTOMOBILES.

Mention Michigan and most people think immediately of automobiles and furniture. Good reason, too, for that State produces two thirds of all the world's automobiles and more furniture than any other State. Among her other honors are first place in engines and chemicals and second in copper, iron ores, rye and sugar beets. Her great shoreline permits much shipping by water and provides for fishing to the extent of some 50,000,000 pounds each year. Forest products bring $88,000,000 annually.

STEEL CHIEFS TO END 12-HOUR DAY

ANNOUNCEMENT MADE BY HARDING IN TACOMA, WASH. SPEECH BEFORE SAILING

IMPORTANT INDUSTRIAL STEP

Gary, Schwab and Other Manufacturers Promise To Make Change as Labor Supply Increases.

Tacoma, Wash.—President Harding announced here that he had received a promise from Judge E. H. Gary, chairman of the United States Steel corporation, Charles M. Schwab, and a dozen other big steel manufacturers that the 12-hour day in the steel industry would be abolished as soon as there was a surplus of labor.

The president made the announcement during his speech in Tacoma stadium just before sailing for Alaska. He also made public at the same time copies of letters passed between himself and Judge Gary.

"It is very gratifying," said the president, "to be able to announce progress."

"I have received a joint communication from a large majority of steel manufacturers of America in which they have undertaken to abolish the 12-hour day in the American steel industry at the earliest moment that the additional labor shall be available."

"I wish to congratulate the steel industry on this important step. It will heal a sore in American industrial life which has been the cause of infinite bitterness and strength for over a generation."

"It is an example that I trust the few other continuous processes in industry which still maintain the 12-hour day may rapidly follow."

BELT R. R. LINES ARE PLANNED

Contending Companies to Appear Before Commission.

Detroit—Two railroad companies with tentative plans to link Detroit with Marine City, will appear before the public utilities commission at Lansing to fight for the right to establish their respective lines.

The companies are: The Detroit Connecting railway and the Detroit Grand Belt railway. The Detroit Connecting railway claims priority rights through the filing of its intention with the Michigan public utilities commission in 1918.

In 1920 a law was passed by congress under the transportation act which provided that an application must be filed at Washington with the Interstate Commerce commission before rail connections could be opened. The Detroit Connecting railway failed to file this application.

FOURTH OF JULY DEATH TOLL 23

Children Are Victims in Most of Accidents Throughout U. S.

Chicago—Twenty-three deaths and more than a hundred injuries resulted from fire works and explosions and other accidents incidental to the nation's observance of Independence Day. Although efforts to prevent the usual casualties were virtually universal, fatalities occurred in all the principal cities.

Most of the victims were children. Pittsburgh led in number of deaths, tetanus, causing four deaths of children.

In Michigan, fire works explosions were responsible for three deaths. St. Louis, with 61 injured, had a greater number hurt than any other city, although Chicago, with three dead and 28 injured, was a close second.

KRUPPS ACCEPT FRENCH TERMS

Coal Movement Pact Signed—Workers To Return To Work.

London—The first indication that the magnates of the Ruhr are inclined to accept the inevitable and come to terms, the signature of the agreement between the French authorities and Herr Von Buelow, acting head of the Krupps during the imprisonment of Baron Von Bohlen, to facilitate the removal of 70,000 tons of reparations coal and coke seized at one of the Krupp plants has been received here.

The agreement involves the return to work of 3,000 employees and gives the French engineers free access to coal and coke stores.

Woman Senator Silent

Seattle, Wash.—Miss Beba Hurn, first woman state senator in the state of Washington, is back in Seattle, glad that the legislative session is over at the state capital and that she can get back to her kitchen range and law practice. Besides the one distinction of being the state's only woman senator, she has a greater and better accomplishment to her credit. She has been clear through one session of the legislature and has never made a speech.

Discovers Statue on Tiber

Rome—A colossal seated statue of Minerva, carved from colored alabaster, has been discovered on the site of Emporium, which was a landing place on the Tiber for marble shipments in the days of Republican and Imperial Rome. Surrounding Emporium were schools for marble cutters and sculptors, and there also were many Hellenistic art associations. Workmen digging the foundation for a building came to the statue, carved in the most exquisite Hellenistic style.

MISS JANE ADDAMS

Tokio—Miss Jane Addams, noted leader of women's movements, who is in a hospital here seriously ill.

BALLOON PILOT FALLS A MILE

Aeronauts Drop 5,800 Feet in Six Minutes Without Injury.

Wapakoneta, O.—Ralph H. Upson, Detroit aeronaut entered in the National Elimination Balloon Race, and a companion fell a mile in pitch darkness at 2 a. m. after his balloon, the "Detroit," exploded above the clouds as he slept.

Upson, winner of one international air race, three national balloon races in the last 10 years, was a conspicuous entry in the race, both because of his record and because he had built the "Detroit" in defiance of conventional racing balloon construction.

Many details of his radical departure from conventional design have been withheld as military secrets of the United States Army Air Service. Upson's aid was C. G. Andrus, meteorologist for the United States Weather Bureau station at Due West, S. C.

Both he and the Detroit escaped injury when they plunged into a farmer's backyard, literally at his kitchen door, after a plunge of 5,800 feet through utter darkness four miles west of Wapakoneta, O.

They had been 10 hours in the air.

BRITISH SHIP HONORS HARDING

Naval Forces March in Parade at Portland, Oregon.

Portland, Ore.—When President Harding arrived at Portland, the British cruiser Curlew, anchored in the harbor, fired a presidential salute as the special train crossed the bridge over the Willamette river. For a British man-of-war to celebrate the Fourth of July by saluting the president of the United States is believed to be a precedent.

An outstanding feature of the parade in Portland was the participation of two companies of sailors and marines from the British cruiser Curlew in the harbor. They marched in the column with the blue and khaki of the United States navy and army.

The joint participation of the British and American forces was made possible through special arrangements with the Washington government, which were necessary in order that the British might carry their arms for the occasion. The arrangements were personally approved by President Harding in advance of his arrival here.

DEMPSEY REMAINS CHAMPION

Battle Fought Under Blazing Sun Before a Small Crowd.

Shelby, Montana—Negotiations are already under way for a return match between Jack Dempsey, world's heavy weight champion, and Tom Gibson, who was defeated here on the Fourth of July.

The challenger, to the astonishment of the spectators in the sun-baked arena on the edge of this boom town, was on his feet, still fighting at the end of his scheduled 15-round heavyweight championship battle with Jack Dempsey, when almost everybody expected him to be knocked out, in six or seven rounds. Referee Jimmy Dougherty of Philadelphia awarded Dempsey the decision when the gong clang ended the fifteenth round, but Gibbons, who did not get a cent for fighting the champion, left the ring with a moral victory. It was the first time that any fighter had managed to face Dempsey and still be on his feet at the finish since he became champion.

Falls Five Floors, Not Hurt

New York—Margie O'Donnell, 2 years old, fell five floors from the roof of her home and escaped with nothing more than a slight injury to her right wrist. Her fall was broken by the awning of a fruit store on O. round floor, and she bounded up and down on it two or three times before she slid gently to the ground. She had undertaken to walk across from the roof of her own home to the roof of her playmates' home next door and lost her balance.

Saw Island Rise in Ocean

Washington—The birth of an island is described in a report received by the hydrographer's office from Capt. George B. Genereaux, master of the steamship Jaxox, who declared he was an eyewitness to at least part of the phenomenon. Recently, a violent disturbance was noted on the sea at latitude 10.07 north and longitude 109.00 east, where a mass "dark in color, with straight sides, about 100 feet in height and between two and three miles in length" had risen above the water.

Allies Provide Radio Rules.

Washington—Another of the major accomplishments of the Washington arms conference has been consummated with the acceptance by the allied powers of the new rules of international law governing the use of radio and aircraft in time of war.

Gets Verdict for Flat Feet.

Washington—Johnny Murphy, an ordinary seaman, obtained a $40,000 verdict against the Emergency Fleet corporation when he proved he would no longer be able to work at his calling because of flat feet resulting from injury aboard a shipping board vessel.

Ruhr Solution Urged By Pope.

Rome—Pope Pius XI sent a message to Cardinal Gasparri, papal secretary of state, dealing with the Ruhr issue, and suggesting that the allied powers substitute some form of guarantees for German reparations payments other than military occupation of the Ruhr basin.

Discontinuance of Court Asked.

Topeka, Kan.—Members of the Kansas Industrial court were asked by Governor Jonathan M. Davis virtually to abolish the court, in view of the recent supreme court decision. The executive stated the decision rendered the body valueless to the state except as an investigating organization.

World Tour In Small Boat.

London—Another attempt is to be made to encircle the world in a 45-foot boat. Connor O'Brien, one of the best known Irish sailing men, is soon to start out on a 30,000-mile trip in a small ketch of his own design. O'Brien's boat, which bears the Irish name of "Saoise," has no auxiliary power.

American Autos Rule World's Roads.

Washington—American-made motor cars rule the highways of the world. Reports to the department of commerce revealed American automobiles are being favored over all other imported cars in a majority of foreign nations. For the current fiscal year more than 85,000 American machines were exported.

Canada's Flour Exports Increase.

Washington—Canada's flour exports have increased 107 per cent compared with the pre-war average while those of the United States have increased only 47 per cent, according to a summary made public by the department of commerce in connection with its investigation of world trade in agricultural products.

Places High Valuation on One Cent.

New York—Junius Guttus has a cent that he values at $10,000. "It is the first coin to bear the letters U. S.," says Mr. Guttus, "the first coin upon which the decimal system was based. The date if it is 1783. It is the size of a dime and is made of silver worth about three cents." Howland Wood, curator of the American Numismatic society, confirms Mr. Guttus's opinion of the rarity of the coin.

Needle in Hand 33 Years.

Willows, Cal.—A needle has been found in the hand of Mrs. J. B. Hann, which has been imbedded there 33 years. In 1890 she accidentally ran a needle into her hand and at the time it was found impossible to remove the implement. Having ceased to cause her trouble, it was left to work its way out. Mrs. Hann suffered from a felon on her finger and an X-ray photograph revealed the needle in the palm.

Forbidden City Relics Burned.

Peking—Fire swept through the Forbidden City Wednesday. The ancient imperial historical hall, containing ancestral relics of all the emperors, was destroyed together with dozens of smaller buildings surrounding it. Wooden plaques, upon which were carved the histories of dynasties stretching back into almost forgotten ages, were devoured by the flames, and stories of many centuries before Christ wiped out forever.

Octogenarian Quartette.

Knoxville, Tenn.—A male quartette the youngest member of which is 74 years old, has been organized by the First Baptist church here. The oldest member, John Cruise, singer tenor. The other singers are C. C. Hill, 75, baritone; B. Blinnig, 78, first bass; and W. C. Frazier, 74, second bass. Announcement that the octogenarian quartet would sing at a concert given recently brought a crowded house to the large First Church auditorium.

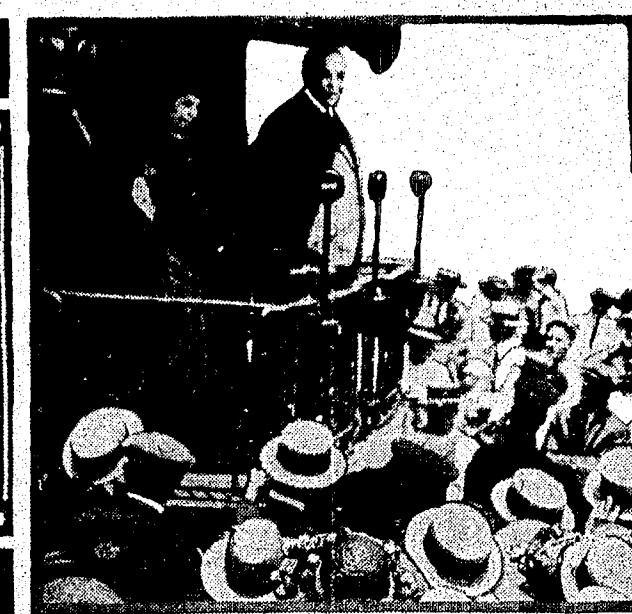

Lassoed a Catfish.

Tiffin, O.—Speaking of skill with a lariat, Louis Kuebler would make the "Frontier Day" performers at Cheyenne, Wyo., look like pickers if he could repeat the little stunt he staged while fishing near Port Clinton, O., recently. Yes, sir, Kuebler did some real lassoing. And it wasn't a bull this time. It was a big catfish, reports have it. It's a real fish story, too, for the testimony of several companions is given in support of the story.

Lightning Splits Stove Wood.

Mountain Home—A severe storm that swept over this section illustrated the old saying "that it's an ill wind that blows nobody good." Ed Smothers, representative from this county, who lives at the edge of town, saw his garden destroyed by hail, and Tony Bachert, the local butcher, who lives three miles east of here, got enough wood to keep his wife's cook stove burning all summer. A dead tree which stood near the latter's house was struck by lightning.

President Greeting His Friends in the West

This photograph represents a scene that was frequently repeated as President Harding traveled through the western part of the country, for he made a great many little speeches from the back platform of his car.

Girls Load Near East Relief Ship

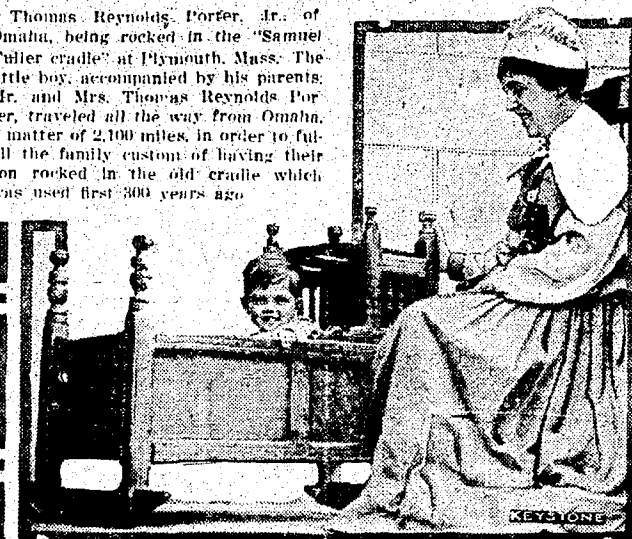

A crowd of pretty girls from southern California high schools and colleges, garbed in overalls, served as stevedores and "longshorewomen" when 600 tons of goods gathered by the Near East Relief were loaded on the steamer Mexican at Los Angeles harbor for transport overseas.

Oregon Trail Opened at Portland

The Portland end of the Old Oregon trail was dedicated as the opening event of the annual Rose festival at Portland, Ore. Miss Lucy Lee, queen of the festival, and her maids, in sunbonnets and calico dresses, were hauled into the city in an old prairie schooner of pioneer days.

Old Family Custom Is Observed

Thomas Reynolds Porter, Jr., of Omaha, being rocked in the "Samuel Fuller cradle" at Plymouth, Mass. The little boy, accompanied by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Reynolds Porter, traveled all the way from Omaha, a matter of 2,100 miles, in order to fulfill the family custom of having their son rocked in the old cradle which was used first 300 years ago.

BITS OF INFORMATION

Life is very serious to Mohammedan men, who rarely smile or joke. In spite of their entrance into politics, the women of Egypt are not abandoning their veils.

Girls born in May are, according to the old belief, amiable, good-looking, long-lived and happy. Members of the Women's party of South Africa are refusing to pay taxes until they get the ballot.

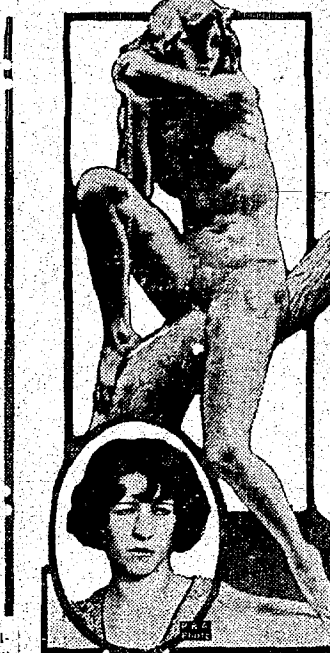

Ships are allowed to carry more in summer than in winter. The King of Norway is one of the best musicians in his realm.

The Grand Central station in New York receives between 15,000 and 18,000 lost articles every year.

Unique among the cities of America is Blythe, Cal. The place has a population of 1,800, but no citizens named Smith or Jones.

The word hairbreadth, now used for infinitesimal space, once named a regular measure. It was the width of 16 hairs laid side by side.

WHY MRS. LIND WAILS

Mrs. Charles U. Lind is preparing to bring suit for $200,000 damages against A. Stirling Calder, a sculptor of New York, alleging he made a sculptured study of her head and shoulders and then, without her consent, added a nude figure of Dryad. Above are the statue and a portrait of Mrs. Lind.

THIS MADE DOYLE ANGRY

This "spirit doll" was made by several well-meaning young members of the Ambassador hotel's table decoration factory in Los Angeles in honor of Conan Doyle. Contrary to their expectations, Sir Arthur became very irate when he learned about the doll and lost no time in informing the girls that he took spiritualism seriously and didn't appreciate their tribute.

KING BORIS' CHOICE

Dispatches from Europe say King Boris of Bulgaria has asked for the hand of Princess Elena, youngest daughter of Queen Marie of Rumania. She is only sixteen years of age, and the king is twenty-nine years old.

No Need for Further Call. Little Katherine was visiting her aunt in the country and one morning while she and her cousin were dressing, chintz-covered crowd and loud near the house. Katherine rushed to the window and shouted, "Never mind us, Mr. Rooster! We're up."

Can Make Flower Scents. Nearly all flower scents can be successfully imitated by judicious blending of artificial odors. That of the jasmine is the most notable exception.

New Star Discovered. Flagstaff, Ariz.—Dr. C. O. Lampman, of Lowell, Observatory here, has announced the discovery of a new star located in a spiral nebula of the southern heavens in the constellation Centaurus. The discovery was made through comparative photographic plates, one plate showing nothing and another, taken nine days later, giving a sharp and clear image of the stars. The nebula in Centaurus, known as Messier 83, has been observed at Lowell Observatory for many years, to detect changes.

Michigan Happenings

Various methods of mechanical restraint as heretofore practiced on inmates of the various state hospitals, have been abolished in all but one of the institutions, and they will be banned in that hospital, according to S. Q. Pulver, of Owosso, a member of the state hospital commission. Pulver said there were 10,000 mental defectives in state institutions now and 5,000 victims of epilepsy were scattered over the state, at least 2,500 of which should be in state institutions. He declared insanity was increasing at an alarming rate.

Orders have been issued by officials of the state administrative board to the highway department to permit no more road building machinery of any kind to be taken from the supply station at Charlotte, except by the state. The order not only cuts off access the road building contractors have had to the state owned machinery, but will prevent country highway commissions from obtaining state supplies. It is the purpose of the state to use this machinery at the various prison camps to be established around the state.

Twice reported dead, Charles Christanelli, gave his mother and friends a joyful surprise, when he arrived at his home in Vulcan for an extended visit with his mother. He has been away from Vulcan 12 years. Christanelli did not write home during that time and when newspapers in California twice reported him dead his mother believed it was true. On the first occasion the papers reported he had been killed in an accident and the second time they said he died from sickness.

Another steamer has been added to those making Mauntee their home port. The Berkley formerly running between Norfolk, Va., and New York, has been purchased by the Pere Marquette lines according to announcement made by Gus Kitzinger, president and general manager. A crew has been sent for the new boat. She is built of steel and compares favorably with the Nevada now in use by the company.

Michigan Odd Fellows have been assured a permanent summer camp at Lobdell lake near Penton, where W. K. King and W. W. Watson have donated a tract of land for the purpose. The Odd Fellows are planning a large picnic at the lake which will mark the formal acceptance of the tract. Lobdell lake is considered one of the finest bodies of water in the southern part of Genesee county.

An order issued by the State Public Utilities Commission gives the Mauntee & Northwestern Railway authority to take over the Leelanau Transit Co. track, a stretch of about 30 miles running from Traverse City to Northport. The road is used principally for hauling fruit and tourists. It had been the intention of the controlling company to abandon the line.

Appointment of Frank D. Fitzgerald, former deputy secretary of state, as business manager of the state highway department, was announced by Highway Commissioner Frank Rogers. Fitzgerald will succeed Levi H. Neilson, whose resignation as deputy commissioner was announced simultaneously with the appointment.

The entire property of the Michigan United Railways was sold at mortgage sale to the Irving Bank & Columbia Trust Co. of New York for $5,000,000. The purchasers were trustees for the bondholders. The sale was conducted by William S. Sayres, Jr., special master of the United States District Court at Detroit.

Judge Glenn R. Faling has been appointed public administrator for Kalamazoo county in accordance with the terms of the recent statute providing for such an officer to take charge of estates left by persons without known heirs or known next of kin eligible to take out letters of administration.

The Detroit Edison company has purchased the lighting and power business of the Dundee power company, and will erect a high tension line from Monroe to Dundee, connecting them with the village of Milan. Power at the present time is obtained from a dam across the River Raisin.

Announcement was made at the offices of the Federal Reserve board that the Brown City Savings Bank, has been admitted to the reserve system.

Approximately 500 students, or about 5 per cent of the total enrollment, have been dropped from the University of Michigan because of poor scholarship, according to estimates made since the June examinations. The exact number will not be known for some time.

The acute labor shortage in the hematite iron mining region at Ironwood is causing much uneasiness on the part of mining superintendents along the entire range. The most severe shortage is in the underground workers, but even the surface gangs are short thousands of men.

William Young, 60 year old, an engineer for the fire department of Grand Rapids, was stricken with paralysis while helping to fight a fire and died while being rushed to a hospital.

That the Mauntee County Farm Bureau will purchase a marl extracting machine is the decision of the board of directors. The extractor will come complete except for the motor power, which is to be furnished by local tractors. It is to be shipped from Goshen, Ind. It is estimated that between 5,000 and 10,000 tons of marl will be used here annually. If it can be obtained, and outside contractors wanted $1 a ton for extracting it. The machine has a capacity of 60 to 90 tons a day and will work in swamps, lakes or rivers.

After 42 years continuous service as assistant to the secretary, Miss Lucy Chapin will leave the employ of the University of Michigan. In recognition of her faithfulness the university has retired her on an allowance for life. In the 42 years Miss Chapin asked leave of absence but once. That was in the summer of 1914, when in addition to the month's vacation allowed university employees, she asked for another month to see a bit of the world—she was going to Europe, a summer vacation trip she long had planned.

Prosecuting Attorney Fred T. Miles of Holland, has given the board of supervisors his decision in the case of William M. Connelly and cites numerous instances showing that the offices of county road commissioner and state senator held by Connelly are incompatible. According to Miles' opinion, the office of county road commissioner held by Connelly is in reality vacant and the board of supervisors has the power to appoint his successor.

Late celery planting now is under way near Decatur, and the acreage planted will be the greatest in the history of the industry. It is predicted. A number of growers are putting out from 30 to 60 acres and all are increasing their acreage. Five hundred cars of celery left Decatur last fall. Onion planting also is heavy.

Muskegon officials were notified that owing to a mistake by the Legislature milk trucks and trucks operating between terminals by manufacturing concerns and others are included in the law regulating busses. All such trucks must obtain permits, provide for insurance, and pay a state license under the ruling.

Grasshoppers are again making their annual raid on crops in the northern part of Mauntee County. The hoppers have practically destroyed every green plant on some of the farms. The rye, corn, beans, potatoes, hay and raspberries were destroyed on the farm of Fred Bradford, Arcadia Township.

Gates as a protection to railway crossings have become obsolete, James H. Rice, chief inspecting engineer of the Michigan Public Utilities commission declared. With the declaration came information that an effort is being made at present to devise some better system for highway crossing protection.

When Donald McMillan, famous Polar explorer, places at Cape Sabine a tablet in honor of the 10 men in the Greely expedition who died there in 1884, he will pay tribute to Edward Israel of Kalamazoo, one of the victims in one of the most harrowing experiences in man's conquest of the Arctic wastes.

Gov. Groesbeck, appointed Frank R. Chase, of Belding, a member of the board of managers of the Michigan Soldiers' Home to succeed the late G. H. Keating, of Bay City. T. C. Betzoldt, of Detroit, was named to the State Board of Accountancy to succeed Clarence G. Hill, of Detroit, term expired.

Christ Hehl, 16 years old, living 12 miles west of Monroe, fell into the knives of a mowing machine last week, when the team became frightened and ran away, and was so badly chopped about the arms and shoulders that he died in a hospital here.

W. G. Fitzpatrick, attorney for the Detroit United Railway, filed application with the Michigan Public Utilities commission for permission to do a general freight hauling business with motor trucks and trailers.

Otis, the 8-year-old child of Mr. and Mrs. James Hanes, of Seville Township, near Alma, was killed when thrown from a mowing machine on which he was riding. The wheel passed over the child's neck.

Announcement has been made of the appointment of Walter A. Terpenning, of the faculty of the University of Michigan, to a place on the faculty of Western State Normal, Kalamazoo.

Grand Rapids won the 1924 convention, honors and prizes in the ritual competition at the annual Michigan Elks' convention which was held at Petoskey. E. H. Stanard, of Owosso, first vice-president was advanced to the presidency.

Robert S. Smith, son of Walter W. Smith, left Saginaw to enter the Annapolis Naval academy. Although he is but 17 years old, he succeeded in meeting the requirements for entrance into the academy.

Farmers near Friesland are picking a quarter crop of strawberries on account of the dry weather. There is little incentive to pick there, since they are bringing but 75 cents a 1/2 for 6-quart cases. Pickers are receiving 40 cents a crate and the crates cost 28 cents each.

Public usage of a right away along the Huron river at Rockwood for more than 50 years, prevented it from being closed, the jury before Judge Ira W. Jayne in circuit court decided.

CALL YALE ROWING COACH WONDER

Coach Ed Leader of the Yale crews, has proven himself a coach of the front rank. In his first season, he has developed a crew that shows promising signs of being returned a winner whenever it starts. Photograph taken at Derby, Conn., shows Coach Leader giving instructions to his crews on the Housatonic river.

Skipper Roberts Kiddled by Manager Blankenship

Years ago in Missoula, Mont., Cliff Blankenship, who managed the team, went to Skipper Roberts, a catcher on the team, before a certain game and told him he could not afford to carry him any longer. The catcher wanted to fight, and fight was one thing he could do. Blankenship managed to pacify him and Roberts went to the club house. Just as the game was ready to start Blankenship received a telegram from Miller Huggins, manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, offering him $2,500 for immediate delivery of Roberts.

Blankenship rushed out to the club house and threw his arms around Roberts. "What's the big idea?" stuttered Roberts; "somebody in line for a poke in the jaw?"

"I've just sold you to St. Louis for $2,500," enthused Blankenship, and he showed Roberts the telegram.

"Oh, I see now," said Roberts, "you were kidding me before."

Blankenship did not tell Roberts until years later that he was not kidding him.

Watson With Giants

John R. "Maule" Watson, Boston National league pitcher, is one of the four players affected in the trade completed between the world's champion Giants and the Boston Braves. Watson and his battery mate, Hank Gowdy, went to the New Yorkers in exchange for Jess Barnes and Earl Smith.

CIRCLING THE BASES

Umpires are talking of organizing. It may be a mass insurance plan.

Charley Jamieson of the Indians continues to play brilliant ball at bat and in the field.

One of the big league clubs has released a pitcher named Winn. He evidently didn't.

Tulsa has released Harry King, former Kitty league pitcher, to Peoria of the Three-I.

Denver, in the Western league, is drawing good crowds despite its low league standing.

The Bridgeport club of the Eastern league traded Herman Bornhoeft, pitcher, to Worcester for Pitcher Lawrence Bennett.

When George Burns of the Cincinnati Reds crossed against the New York Giants, May 17, he crossed the plate for the one thousandth time in his career.

Connie Mack sent one of his college recruits, Shering, to Hartford in the Eastern league, where he has made a good start.

There is much comment on the flood of home runs in the Eastern league. Some of the players think the league must have bought a batch of extra lively balls.

There is a tangle of names when Galveston and Dallas meet. Connolly plays second for Galveston, and Connolly pitches, and Conley pitches for Dallas and plays as a substitute in the infield, etc.

"After seeing college baseball games and the many 'boners' the collegians pull, there is need for more coaches—to coach the coaches," says an umpire who has been officiating in college games.

George Stallings thinks he has a good laugh on Ty Cobb in the Cliff Brady case. Brady looks as good or better than ever with Rochester, while Detroit could use a second baseman of quality to advantage.

Bone Play Averted

Pitcher Dana Fillingim was saved from pulling a fine buster in one of the Boston-Pittsburgh games by an umpire's ruling. With the tying run on third and another runner on first, Maranville at bat hit a foul; the ball was tossed back to Fillingim in the box; it did not suit him and he threw it into the dugout. The Pirate runner on third ran home and the man on first chased to third. An argument arose. The umpires decided that since Fillingim had not stepped on the rubber before he tossed the ball away it was out of play and the runners were sent back without damage done. But what Manager Mitchell said to the thoughtless pitcher was a plenty.

Chief Bender Is Signed Again to Coach Middles

Chief Bender, great Indian pitcher, one of the greatest of all time, chief warrior with Connie Mack's old machine, did so well coaching the Middles that they engaged him for another year at Annapolis. Bender was one of the brainiest of pitchers, one of the greatest students of weakness and strength of the opposing batters. Bender used to be a wizard at discovering signals used by opposing teams and using that knowledge to convert contests into victories.

Notre Dame to Graduate Four Stars This Season

Notre Dame will graduate four baseball men to the big leagues this season. Captain Castner and Kane received offers at the end of last season but deferred their trials until the conclusion of their college careers. Dick Mulvey, pitcher, and Dan Foley, infielder, are being looked over by scouts and probably will receive a trial.

Boxing Introduced Into Italy by Our Soldiers

Prior to 1913 boxing was quite unknown in Italy. The first real impetus for this sport came from the arrival of the American soldiers in Rome, and since that time boxing has made great strides and developed some excellent fighters.

"Obstacle Golf" is New
"Obstacle golf," a new game which originated in Pasadena, Cal., is becoming a popular sport on courses around the country. In place of nine holes there are as many obstacles, which the ball has to pass through, such as a ring placed high on a post, going between a stove and a circle, through a doll house, etc.

COLLINS HAS RECORD IN WORLD'S SERIES

Participated in Six Titular Diamond Battles.

If the world's series was to be won by money, we wonder why those American league clubs that battled for first place did not purchase Eddie Collins, the old war horse who holds down second base for the White Sox. Eddie, all things considered, looks like the best bet for this baseball brief. First and foremost, he has had the necessary experience in these titular diamond battles, as he has played in more of them than any other big leaguer.

To date, Eddie has been through the war just six times to be on the winning side in four starts. Unlike most stars, Collins has always come through in a world series, as his record of scoring the most runs of any player ever to participate in the classic goes to show. According to the official scorers he has crossed the home plate 20 times in these affairs.

That he is a team player is also shown by history, for in one series he gained the record for making the most sacrifice hits.

That was the series between the Athletics and Chicago in 1910, when he advanced the runner no fewer than eight times.

Because of all this one manager once remarked, upon losing a world series to the Athletics, that no club could win a world series with Collins playing against it.

Probably that is why Eddie has been relegated to a noncontender. But we cannot see, remarks a writer in the Cleveland Leader, if coin is to win the league races through purchase of players, why some club has not garnered Eddie Collins.

WILL ALLOW FAMILY CLAIMS

Class Heretofore Regarded as Unauthorized Now Permitted by U. S. Veterans' Bureau.

Consideration of a class of veterans' claims heretofore regarded as unauthorized will be permitted by the United States Veterans' bureau, according to word received by the American Legion.

A new ruling provides that claims which were made for family allowance after the veteran's discharge from the service can now be considered where the person to whom it was desired to make the allowance was subsequently brought by law within the permitted class of beneficiaries.

In the particular case submitted by the Veterans' bureau for decision, an attempt was made by an enlisted man to claim an allowance for his aunt, who, he showed, was absolutely dependent upon him for support. At that time the claim was disallowed because an aunt was not then, nor now, within the permitted class of family allowance beneficiaries. The aunt involved in this case, however, stood in loco parentis to the enlisted man.

Following the discharge of the enlisted man from the service, the first Sweet bill amended the war risk insurance act by enlarging the permitted class to whom allowances might be made to include "persons who have stood in loco parentis to a member of the military or naval forces at any time prior to his enlistment or induction for a period of not less than one year." This amendment was made retroactive in its force to October 3, 1917. The aunt in the case ruled upon held such status.

In view of this retroactive provision the comptroller general has ruled that a regulation of the Veterans' bureau requiring that application for family allowance must have been made while the enlisted man was still in the service does not apply where a subsequently enacted law has given rights which could not have been claimed while the enlisted man was in service.

HOME FOR EX-SERVICE MEN

Wonderful Estate in Heart of New York Forest Preserve to Be Used as Sanitarium.

Free treatment will be afforded tubercular veterans in the Veterans' Mountain camp of the American Legion, a project sponsored by the ex-service men's organization in the Adirondack mountains of New York.

Here a 1,275-acre estate of a former well known millionaire has been secured in the heart of the New York forest preserve. The camp will not only be used as a sanitarium for tubercular and convalescent veterans but will eventually become a home for aged and indigent ex-service men.

The only requirement for admission will be an honorable discharge from the armed forces of the United States. Everything will be furnished to the war fighters, treatment, board, lodging, clothing, and pocket money. Veterans from any section of the country will be admitted, if it is proved they are in need.

The project was originated by the American Legion in New York as a portion of its hospitalization program. The Legionnaires of the state seek a fund of $2,500,000 to provide for the camp, and a campaign has been waged throughout the state to this end.

In speaking of the project, the committee in charge stated: "The camp is a tangible manifestation by the American Legion that it means to end the intolerable conditions under which thousands of veterans have been dragging along. The Legion means to provide the necessities these men have lacked and place their comrades beyond the reach of want. It hopes to awaken the nation to the reality of things, and is firm in its belief that once aroused, it will come forward, heart and hand, and aid them in this great work."

Among the honorary committee which is serving in assisting to raise the fund are former Ambassador James W. Gerard, Otto H. Kahn, David Belasco, Augustus Thomas, George W. Wickersham and others.

Memorial Erected.
A memorial has been erected by the University of Arkansas in honor of the students of that institution who gave their lives in the World war. A huge boulder of native limestone to which is attached a bronze plate bearing the names of the dead heroes serves as the memorial. American Legion members had charge of the dedicatory ceremonies.

Brought Out Ancient Autos.
Legionnaires in Santa Ana, Cal., recently held a most unique celebration in an "Automobile Resurrection day" which they staged. Derelict cars of every type were sought out and formed a parade through the city's streets. It is said that the vintage of some of the cars was so ancient that automobile manufacturers sought to purchase them as relics.

OLD FAT HIPPO

"I am a fat old creature and I don't mind," said the Hippopotamus in the zoo.

A sparrow had had a bath in the Hippo's pool and now was sitting on a bar of the hippo's indoor zoo room.

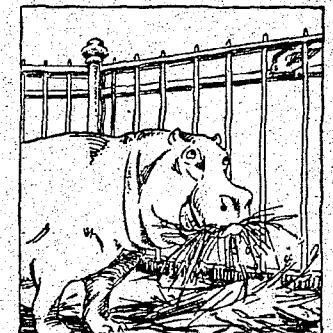

"I'm interesting for I belong to an old old family. They can't think back to a time when there weren't some of our family about."

"At least none of them can I know, and I've heard them even say that their grandmothers and great-great-grandmothers can't remember the time when there weren't some of us to be seen somewhere—either in Africa or in a zoo."

"For the members of our family lived a very, very long time ago. Our name of Hippopotamus comes from two words—two Greek words, I'm told. I don't speak Greek myself. Never did and never shall. At least, I don't ever expect to learn the language."

"Fancy seeing Old Fat Hippo with a Greek dictionary before him! In the first place I'm too lazy to study it. In the second place, it would all be so foolish."

"Hippopotamus talk is the same everywhere. We don't change our speech from African to American for example. In that way animals are far more sensible than people, I think. In one part of the country people speak in one language, and in another, quite a different language. Now, animals have the same language. Lions speak lion talk wherever they are! We speak Hippopotamus talk wherever we are.

"But people! No, they're always thinking of how to give themselves extra trouble. But as I started to say our name comes from two Greek words. We are given our name by people, you see. I can't tell you the Greek words, and as I said before, I'm not going to study Greek."

"Why, just to show you how hard Greek is, people often say, 'Why, that would be Greek to me,' when they are talking about something which they couldn't possibly understand. Yes, that is just an expression, so it goes to show you how hard Greek is, that even an expression or saying of that sort has been made up about it."

"The two Greek words though, mean river horse. That is what hippopotamus means. And it's not a bad name, though it could be better. Still it might be worse! I eat enormous quantities of grass every day. I've a good hippopotamus appetite and my keeper says I do not need a tonic."

"In fact, I'm almost growing too fat. I weigh several thousand pounds, I believe. It is all because I eat a lot and don't exercise. But I don't care about exercising. I like to swim and they say that my relatives when free can climb up banks which are ever so high and can swim magnificently. But I don't care about exercising."

"I'd never care to do calisthenics every morning and evening, nor would I care to walk around my yard several times a day as quickly as I could. No, I wouldn't care for exercise."

"I would rather be fat. Oh yes, I'd much rather be fat. How dreadful it would be to be a thin hippopotamus and not have lots of weight. I'd hate to be called 'skinny' and I make sure there will never be any danger of that. Oh, I must have a nap now and later I may have a little splash and then a good meal and another rest."

"Oh, it is fun to rest and eat and dream hippopotamus dreams. They are dreams of more resting and more food by the way."

And the little sparrow flew out then, while the hippopotamus did just as he had said he would. He had a nap and he was in his pool. Then he had a little splash. Then a good meal and another rest. And if you had looked at him you would have been pretty sure that he was dreaming of more rest and more food. He had that look on his hippopotamus face!

RIDDLES

What has teeth but cannot bite? A saw.

What water grows on a bush? Rose-water.

What bird does a hungry man like? A swallow.

When is a boy kind to birds? When he is fond of a lark.

When is a ship like a floor? When she is boarded.

What goes in the water red and comes out black? A clinder.

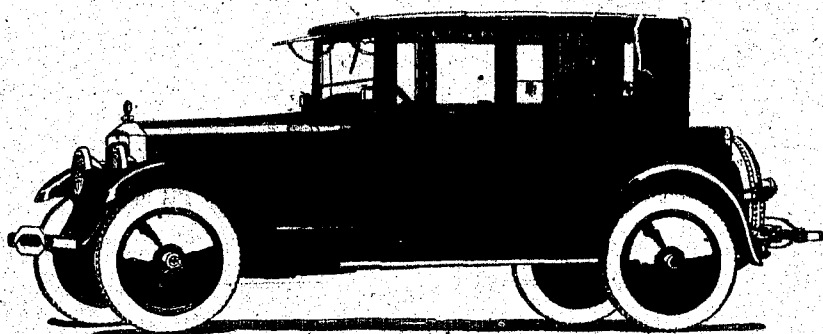

What has many feathers but is not a bird? A feather bed.

What two letters make a word meaning not difficult? E-Z (Easy).

What has two legs, but cannot walk? A pair of overalls.

Why is L a marvelous letter? Because it changes pear into a pearl.

STUDEBAKER BIG-SIX FIVE-PASSENGER COUPE $2550

The Big-Six Coupe Offers a Rare Combination of Elegance and Utility

Into the Studebaker Big-Six five-passenger Coupe have gone, without compromise, the finest design, materials, workmanship and the best of Studebaker's 71 years' experience.

Nothing has been left undone to make this big, roomy coupe as fine an enclosed car as can be built.

Certainly no car performs more brilliantly or is more reliable. None possesses greater beauty or is more luxuriously comfortable. None is more enjoyable to drive—and no other make of car is more completely equipped.

You will appreciate the generous roominess of this Big-Six Coupe, its sterling quality of body and chassis and its wealth of refinements—including the large trunk; extra disc wheel complete with tire, tube and tire cover; handsome nickel-plated bumpers front and rear; courtesy light; motometer; flower vase; clock; aluminum-bound running boards with corrugated rubber mats and step pads; rear-view mirror; automatic windshield cleaner, glare-proof visor, and many others.

Its low price is due to large volume and to the fact that Studebaker overhead is shared by three models—all sixes. Then, too, only one manufacturing profit is included in the Big-Six price because all vital parts are manufactured in Studebaker plants.

Studebaker has been building quality vehicles for more than two generations.

LIMESTONE LEGUMES LIVESTOCK

MEAN PROFITS IN FARMING

Buck Up!

Fight 'Em to a Finish.
(Another short chapter in "Science and the Farmer.")

Don't sit feebly while pests destroy the results of our hard work. Buck up. Fight 'em to a finish.

Leaf Hopper.

These small green lice work on under side of leaves of potato plants. They suck the juice out of the leaves and cause them to look as if struck with blight.

The first green louse or leaf hopper which appears in a potato field should be received with a stiff dose of nicotine sulphate (black leaf 40).

These bugs reproduce very rapidly in warm weather, and no effort should be spared in killing the first generation.

The Striped Cucumber Beetle. How to Control This Troublesome Insect.

The striped cucumber beetle is a small, black and yellow striped beetle that feeds on the leaves of cucumber, cantaloupe, and other vines of like nature, attacking them as they come up and continuing to feed on them for weeks. Not only do the beetles feed on the plants, but they also lay their eggs on the stems and the grubs from these eggs burrow in the stems and roots.

There are several methods of controlling the beetles, the most common being by dusting on soot or hydrated lime or some poison. A satisfactory dusting powder is prepared by mixing about two tablespoonsful of turpentine into a pintful of air-slaked lime or of hydrated lime. Stir the mixture well and then allow it to stand for a few hours before dusting on the plants. The powder is used by dusting on the leaves, either through a coarse cloth or by means of a mechanical duster, every few days as long as the beetles continue to make trouble.

Be Ready.

At this season when calf scours, blood in stock, and poisoning from potato bug, poison are likely, it is best to know what to do in a hurry, and to have the remedy where it can surely be found at a moment's notice. I gave remedies for calf scours in a recent number. Better get some ready. For blood in cows the Kentucky Experiment station reports that 11-13 ounces of formaldehyde to one quart of water, given the cow as a drench, is good. Immediately after giving place a piece of wood, the diameter of a large fork handle cross ways in cow's mouth, as a bit in a horse's mouth. Make such a piece of wood now; put in the strong cord with which to fasten stick in cow's mouth, and hang where you can quickly find it.

Exercise cow gently if she can get up.

Caution.

Do not raise a cow's head very high when you give her medicine, for she can't swallow then. She may choke.

Tapping for Bloat.

In extreme cases of bloat in cows, tapping can be resorted to. It would be best if every farmer would provide himself with a trocar and canula and keep it ready as few farms escape cases of bloat. A dollar invested in a trocar and canula may save a seventy-five dollar cow.

A trocar is a sharp pointed piece of metal that slips inside a tube called a canula.

Both are driven together into the spot at which tapping (or sticking) is to be done. Withdraw the trocar (dagger) and leave the canula (tube) in the wound to hold it open to let the gas out.

When impossible to get such an outfit in time I would try the blade of my jackknife rather than let the animal die. A well-known farmer in this county saved a valuable cow last week by the jackknife method.

The blade of the knife must be cleansed. Use boiling water if possible, to cleanse the blade. If you can't get it in time hold burning match along knife blade before using to disinfect it.

The spot where cows are tapped lies high up in the left flank, at the most distended (swollen) place close to the last rib, just a little ahead of hip bone. Better have it all thought out while there is no hurry.

Other Simple Bloat Remedies.

A well-known dairy paper, in its veterinary department states: "When bloating occurs in the pasture and a pond or creek is near, running the animal into the cold water may reduce bloat, as may dashing cold water upon the body."

"Other helpful measures are persistent kneading of the paunch, working the tongue back and forth in the mouth."

"A handful of salt placed far back in the mouth may also help by stimulating a profuse flow of saliva and causing the animal to work its tongue."

"Medical treatment consists in giving slowly and carefully as a drench from a long-necked bottle, 2 to 4 ounces each of pure turpentine and aromatic spirits of ammonia in a quart or more of water or milk, or such other drugs as the veterinarian may prescribe."

The big point is: prepare ahead; have some of these remedies on hand, labeled and in a safe place.

Some One Always Does.

Every year some one places a barrel of Paris green water near the fence. Cattle come along, drink the water, and there is another dead cow to haul away and bury.

Who will start this cheerful practice in our fair county?

Purple Top Yellow Aberdeens.

In 1921 Mr. Andrew Mortenson cut his rye on seven acres, fitted the soil at once, sowed to mammoth clover mixed with Purple Top Yellow Aberdeens and got a thousand bushels of beautiful big, round rich yellow turnips, and in 1922 cut twenty-four loads of hay there. I call this a clever move.

Sowing these turnips does not hurt the clover stand.

Can't you do the same this year? Try to find a place to sow some of these splendid roots. Get the seed NOW. Don't wait until the forenoon of the day you want them. You won't need to cultivate these turnips. There will be some small ones that you will not pull this fall. They will do the young clover good as they rot.

The turnips will help your cows this winter.

You know we are headed towards more and better dairying, and towards more income for farmers of gumption.

FREDERIC NEWS.

(Too late for last week.)

Strawberries are panning out wonderfully there being 200 quarts picked last Monday.

Mrs. Laura Wallace has been here enjoying a vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. Sandy Harvey are departing the loss of their only daughter, Delois who passed away from the effects of scarlet fever last week. Delois was an amiable child, just beginning a course in music. She will be sadly missed by her playmates.

Our Highway men have the street sodded as far as the town clerk's corner.

J. J. Higgins has improved his property very much by applying a coat of paint, putting up an awning and erecting a cement porch in front of his place of business.

Mrs. Tom Lewis who has been very poorly, being entirely deaf is improving slowly.

Frank Monroe's family have also been afflicted with fever, but under the care of Dr. Leighton have pulled thru.

John Ensign and children have also been afflicted. All are on the gain.

Mrs. Lee and baby are visiting at her sister's Mrs. Albert Lewis.

Mr. Rice and children pulled out last Saturday night for unknown parts.

E. McCracken is working at Lewis Garage at present.

Mr. Thair and family have returned from a visit down the state.

Miss Irma Craven is visiting in Flint.

Mr. and Mrs. Eli Forbush, and Corydon Forbush and wife have gone to Lansing to attend the wedding of the former's granddaughter, Miss Mildred Wilbur.

Miss Merle Patterson and Mrs. Laura Wallace went to Detroit to spend the Fourth.

Mrs. Consort is enjoying a visit from her sister from Jackson.

Mr. Badler and family spent the Fourth in Onaway.

Max Tobin is home from Big Rapids.

Miss Bernada Skinner is here visiting her aunt Mrs. Erve Roe.

Miss Ethel Monroe has gone to Big Rapids to attend summer school.

Mr. and Mrs. George Collins of Grayling visited at their old home here last Sunday.

ELDORADO NUGGETS.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Welnes July 4th, a son who will bear the name of Roy Conrad.

Mrs. George Jones and little daughter, Georgina, of Sandusky arrived Sunday for a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Weber.

Miss Alice Dennis of South Branch is spending a few weeks at the home of her uncle, Conrad Welnes.

Miss Nellie Fry of Roscommon is visiting for the week at the home of Mrs. Mattie Funsch.

Several families from the neighborhood spent the Fourth in Grayling. A good time was enjoyed.

At the school election held Monday at the South Branch town hall the following trustees were elected: Hugo Schriber, who has held the office of secretary for the past year, was re-elected, and Boyd Funsch was elected to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of O. B. Scott.

Mrs. Fred Belmore and little daughter, Olive, are spending some time at the home of Mrs. B's parents Mr. and Mrs. John Love in Beaver Creek township, where the little girl is quite seriously ill.

Mr. and Mrs. James F. Crane and Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Funsch and son, Robert were Sunday callers at Luzerne.

Annabelle Wagner returned to Chicago Saturday after visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Wagner for the past three weeks.

Joe Wagner lost a valuable horse Friday. The horse ran away while hitched to a cultivator and became entangled in a barbed wire fence, cutting himself so badly it was necessary to shoot him.

SIGSBEE NEWS.

Miss Myrtle Stephan returned home last Friday from a short stay in Flint.

Larry Gaffney of Detroit spent the week of the Fourth visiting Miss Matilda Stephan.

Max Irland who has been visiting his friends, Miss Alice Wakeley and brother Junior Wakeley has returned to his home in Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Ernest B. Rogers spent the week-end visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Stephan.

Misses Polly Irland and Alice Wakeley, with John and Gertrude Wakeley were seen coming down river from Grayling Sunday, July 8th. All report having had a very "scrumptious" time.

The Stephanas are kept awfully busy now taking care of fishing parties this season.

Daniel Babbitt's new home on the Ausable near the Wa-Wa-Sum is going up fast, and looks like a fine success.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bridges and daughter June, are busy packing to leave for North Carolina soon on account of Mrs. Bridges' ill health. We are all sorry to see them go.

John and George Knecht have a fine crop of hay this year. They have been busy hauling it the last couple of weeks.

We all hope there will be another barn dance SOON.

THAT DULL ACHING.

Don't worry and complain about a bad back. Get rid of it! For weak kidneys, lame and aching backs, your neighbors recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. Ask your neighbor!

Mrs. Edw. C. King, Grayling, says: "Some time ago my back caused me considerable trouble. It was lame and ached through the small part, and a dull ache seemed to settle there. When I had any lifting or stooping to do I always got a pain in my back and was often tired and weak and all worn out. I began to worry and become depressed and irritable. I was blinded by specks coming before my eyes and headaches came on suddenly. My kidneys had me in a run down condition and I felt wretched all over. I was advised to try Doan's Kidney Pills so I got some at Olsen's Drug Store and they cured me."

Price 60c. at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. King had. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

HIGHLAND BAND FOR STATE FAIR

FAMOUS WAR ORGANIZATION OF KILTIES PLAYED FOR ROYALTY

CRACK MUSICIANS TO PLAY AT DETROIT SHOW 8 DAYS

The band of the Ninety-first Battalion, Princess Louise's Argyle and Southern Highlanders, of Canada, Lieutenant H. A. Stares, Mus. Bacc., conductor.

That's the official cognomen. But the hundreds of thousands who have sat spellbound by the wondrous music of these warrior-bandsmen know them as just plain—

Ninety-First Kilties Band.

And certainly they have held nearly the world apollbound. From coast to coast in Canada and in the United States they have travelled. And when war clouds drifted this way they called off engagements and led their outfit to Europe in a blaze of musical glory.

All Michigan will again have an opportunity to hear this unexcelled military band, for Secretary-Manager George W. Dickinson of the Michigan State Fair has announced that the Ninety-first Kilties will appear there for eight days, playing their inspiring music at afternoon and evening concerts.

"We feel," Mr. Dickinson said, "that an exposition so great as the $5,000,000 Michigan State Fair should have nothing but the best, for it is a state institution and the state must be well represented; further we know it is our duty to have only the best in music, fine arts and the other beautiful things of life for the legions of citizens who travel from far and near to be guests of the state."

"I believe that it is due largely to this determination to constantly improve the Michigan State Fair that has been responsible largely for its unparalleled success and growth."

The Ninety-First Kilties Band, which comes from Hamilton, Ontario, is composed of selected artists who dress in the picturesque kilts of the Highlander. It has played in more than 500 cities and towns in the United States, Canada and England. It has been one of the leading features at many big exhibitions.

While overseas the Ninety-first Kilties was appointed Canadian staff band by Sir Sam Hughes, then minister of militia and defense. It played before the king and queen of England, other members of the royal family, cabinet officers and prominent civil and military leaders.

BOYS TO VISIT THE STATE FAIR

100 LADS TO BE GUESTS OF STATE AT GREAT EXPOSITION

Mister Michigan Farmer Junior, 100 strong, will again have the time of his life this year at the $5,000,000 Michigan State Fair which opens August 31 and closes September 9.

For already one of two bright farmer lads in each county of Michigan have passed the examination which proves they know the business of the soil pretty well for youngsters and are qualified to take the course of instruction offered them by their state government at the great annual exposition in Detroit.

The examinations are held in each county under the supervision of E. T. Cameron of Lansing. The boy passing highest or the two tied for highest place in each county are admitted to the course. All their expenses are paid and they are given a busy course in agricultural subjects during the ten days they are the guests of the state at the fair in Detroit.

Not only are they given mental training that will be of value to them on the farm, but their physical well being is looked after under the careful eye of Foster J. Walker, a physical trainer of note. Every morning he takes them out into one of the big fields at the fair grounds and gives them a course of stiff setting up exercises that would do credit to soldiers.

FAIR BOOSTS FRUITS, FLOWERS

To encourage the amateur and professional raisers of fruits, flowers and plants, the state this year will offer $15,000 in premiums in this department at the $5,000,000 Michigan State Fair which will be held in Detroit from August 31 to September 9.

A large increase in the number of entries in this department is expected as in all other departments of the state fair, but Secretary-Manager George W. Dickinson gives assurance that all those persons making entries within a reasonable time will be taken care of.

FAIR WORKERS BUSY

Large crews of men are now busy on the Michigan State Fair grounds in Detroit, getting them in shape for the $5,000,000 exposition which will be held August 31 to September 9.

Camphor & Hybrastis Fine For Sore Eyes

It is surprising how QUICK eye inflammation is helped by camphor, hybrastis, witchhazel, etc., as mixed in Lavoptik eye wash. One lady whose eyes were weak and watery for three years was helped at once. Another case of red, inflamed eyes was also benefited. One small bottle Lavoptik usually helps ANY CASE sore, weak or inflamed eyes. Aluminum eye cup FREE. A. M. Lewis, druggist.
